THURSDAY, FEB. 8 • 6:00 PM

BAYVIEW OPERA HOUSE, 4705 THIRD ST, SF 94124

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 2018

OUR PANELISTS

San Francisco is the most expensive city in the U.S. As investors drive housing prices up, longtime residents of Bayview Hunters Point are displaced. Separated from support networks of family and friends, the resulting trauma and economic hardship is causing a public health crisis.

Mary Ann Jones

CEO, WESTSIDE COMMUNITY SERVICES

In her role as a clinical psychologist and CEO of one of the oldest Black Mental Health Centers in the country, Dr. Jones has fought to bring the voices of the Black community to local providers in hopes of making positive and substantive changes to our healthcare delivery system.

Sheila James

PUBLIC HEALTH ADVISOR, U.S. DEPT OF HHS

Sheila leads Region 9's efforts to support community and faith-based organizations addressing health disparities, and will share her experience as part of a "commuter class" at risk for poor health outcomes. She commutes 6-hours a day from Stockton to her job in San Francisco.

JayVon Muhammad

CEO, BAYVIEW HUNTERS POINT CLINIC

A Bay Area native, JayVon has seen the displacement of families caused by gentrification. As CEO of a Federally Qualified Health Center located in the historic Arthur Coleman Medical Center, she and her staff work every day to achieve African American health equity.
